Bereavement Care Pathway

Our National Bereavement Care Pathway core partners

About the NBCP

The National Bereavement Care Pathway has been developed to improve bereavement care and reduce variability in provision for families after miscarriage, ectopic pregnancy, molar pregnancy, termination for fetal anomaly, stillbirth, neonatal death or sudden and unexpected death in infancy up to 12 months.

This document has been prepared to assist all healthcare professionals and staff who are involved in the care of parents of a stillborn baby. Other documents are available that describe the pathway for the other childbearing losses (see www.nbcpathway.org.uk).

'Healthcare professionals' and 'staff' mean any practitioner who has contact with a bereaved parent. 'Parent' refers to an expectant or bereaved mother, father or partner, and 'baby' is used throughout. Not everyone will want these words to be used, though, and healthcare professionals should use the words preferred by the individual. We refer to 'Trusts', but we hope that the pathway will be used by independent healthcare establishments and other bodies that organise and provide care for women and families experiencing a childbearing loss

More detail on the terminology is given at www.nbcpathway.org.uk

“Parents don't need protecting; they need the chance to be parents, provide their child dignity and create memories.”

(Quote by bereaved parent, 2017)

Bereavement care standards

A Trust that meets these standards is considered to be providing good bereavement care. Trusts should audit provision against these standards and improve the bereavement care they offer where gaps are identified.

Implementation of these standards via the pathway will help the Trust to meet the elements of the Care Quality Commission's Maternity Assessment Framework that cover these points (www.bit.ly/2zNYZEd).

- A parent-led bereavement care plan is in place for all families, providing continuity between settings and into any subsequent pregnancies.
- Bereavement care training is provided to all staff who come into contact with bereaved parents, and staff are supported by their Trust to access this training.
- All bereaved parents are informed about and, if requested, referred for emotional support and for specialist mental health support when needed.
- There is a bereavement lead in every healthcare setting where a pregnancy or baby loss may occur.
- Bereavement rooms are available and accessible in all hospitals.
- The preferences of all bereaved families are sought and all bereaved parents are offered informed choices about decisions relating to their care and the care of their babies.
- All bereaved parents are offered opportunities to make memories.
- A system is in place to clearly signal to all healthcare professionals and staff that a parent has experienced a bereavement to enable continuity of care.
- Healthcare staff are provided with, and can access, support and resources to deliver high-quality bereavement care.

1 Recommendations: when a baby is stillborn

A. Diagnosis and delivering difficult news

- Prepare parents for difficult news and inform parents something may be wrong as soon as it is suspected.
- Prepare yourself for giving difficult news by gathering information and consulting with colleagues.
- Find an appropriate place.
- Ask the parent(s) whether they would like a support person present.
- Use clear, straightforward language, with no euphemisms or jargon.
- Give parents time to absorb news and answer any questions you are able to, within your scope of practice.
- Give parents information about what happens next. Provide written information and contact details for a named health professional (a template contact card is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk).
- Check the parents can get home safely – offer a taxi if necessary.
- If there is one or more surviving sibling from a multiple pregnancy, do not focus solely on them. Acknowledge the baby who has died. Recognise the challenge that the parents face in celebrating the arrival of one baby and the tragic death of the other baby or babies.

B. Labour and birth

If the baby shows signs of life when born, see section on coroners in the neonatal death pathway.

Death before the onset of labour

- Discuss the birth plan, including place of birth, method of delivery, pain relief, timings and memory-making.
- Provide written details of where care will be provided and prepare parents for what to expect during induction, labour and birth.
- Provide a named contact in case the parents change their mind or have any questions.
- Ensure all staff seeing parents during labour and birth are aware of the baby's death and communicate sensitively.
- Ensure staff are sensitive to sounds that may be upsetting for bereaved parents to hear.
- Ensure continuity of carer where possible.
- Consider onward transport needs.

Death during labour

- Be open and honest about the situation.
- Introduce any new members of staff.
- If a change in staff or place of care is needed, talk to the parents and try to accommodate their wishes as far as possible.

B. Labour and birth continued

In general

- Enable woman to have a partner or support person with her at all times.
- With the woman's consent, keep the partner or support person informed.
- Provide the partner or support person with emotional support.
- Accurately complete all necessary paperwork, including the previous stillbirth form for the woman's notes (a template form is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk). With consent from the woman, add this to her notes and explain why you have done this.

C. After the birth

Memory-making

- Offer parents the opportunity to see and hold their baby. Offer to describe the baby's appearance.
- Let parents know they can change their mind, but respect a decision when one has been made.
- Complete the informed choice form to ensure parents are provided with options but do not feel pressured (a template form, 'Creating memories – offering choices', is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk).
- Give parents time to reflect and decide what they want.
- Consider the condition of the baby when offering memory-making options.
- Discuss with parents:
 - Washing and dressing the baby
 - Photographs
 - Hand and foot prints
 - Certificate of birth (a template certificate is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk)
 - Taking the baby out of the hospital environment (a template form is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk)
 - Memory box
 - Other memorials
- Where there is a death from a multiple pregnancy, discuss with parents the options around memory-making with siblings.

C. After the birth continued

Post mortem examination

- Ensure staff discussing post mortem examination consent with parents are trained to do so.
- Allow a minimum of one hour for this discussion.
- Ensure discussion takes place in a quiet, private place.
- Tell the parent if the post mortem examination will take place at a different hospital, and explain where and why.
- All transport arrangements and handling of the baby must be respectful; label and track the baby's body.
- During the consent process, inform parents of the likely timescales for the return of the baby's body and the results.
- Identify a named contact within pathology and maternity who will be responsible for following up on results.
- Ensure any small objects or keepsakes such as a hat or cuddly toy that parents sent with the baby are returned following the investigation.
- Ensure that you are aware of relevant statutory death review processes (e.g. Child Death Overview Panel [CDOP] and Learning Disabilities Mortality Review LeDeR; www.bristol.ac.uk/sps/leder) and that these link with your Trust's internal processes (e.g. morbidity and mortality [M&M] meeting, serious incident [SI] review and serious case review [SCR]) and inform parents as appropriate.

Funerals

- Provide parents with information around the legal requirements and options.
- Discuss what is available through the Trust and other local options.
- Provide parents with written information, including:
 - The choices they have if they want the hospital to make arrangements
 - The choices they have and what they need to do if they want to manage the arrangements
 - The costs involved (if any)
- Bear in mind, and facilitate where possible, different personal, religious and cultural needs. Do not make assumptions.
- Discuss the options for urgent burial and cremation with parents where appropriate.
- Offer to refer parents to the chaplaincy team.
- Record all decisions made by the woman in her medical records, including where information is declined or no decision is made.

Registration and certification

- Provide parents with the medical certificate certifying stillbirth.
- Provide information about the registration process, including where and how to register. Inform parents that a stillbirth must be registered within 42 days.
- Provide written information.
- Ensure parents have any other information the registrar will need.

D. Discharge and aftercare

Discharge and aftercare

- Discuss lactation, milk donation and milk suppression with the mother.
- Discuss with the mother ongoing physical symptoms she may experience, such as bleeding and pain, and when to contact a healthcare professional.
- Discuss place and time of leaving the hospital.
- With the mother's consent, primary care staff should be promptly informed that the woman has experienced the death of her baby.
- Inform primary care staff where the mother will be staying when she leaves the hospital.
- Before parents leave the hospital, give them the contact details for primary care staff, secondary care staff and also local and national support organisations (a template contact card is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk).
- Offer all parents a follow-up appointment. Ensure parents know what to expect from this appointment.
- Discuss location of the follow-up appointment and who can attend.

Ongoing emotional support

- With consent from the parents, ensure all hospital and community healthcare staff have been informed of the baby's death.
- With consent from the mother, ensure the mother's notes have a baby loss summary sheet attached (a template form is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk).
- Discuss the difficult emotions parents may experience with them to let them know their feelings are normal.
- Provide parents with information about the emotional support available to them via your Trust, primary care colleagues and via local and national support organisations (see Useful contacts).
- Offer parents contact with the chaplaincy team.
- Allow sufficient time for all follow-up appointments (refer to local policies, where they exist).
- Make sure you know who can offer a mental health assessment and treatment to bereaved parents and the wider family.
- Ensure follow-up care by the GP or health visitor is arranged for the partner as well as the mother.
- See also NICE guidance on antenatal/postnatal mental health (www.nice.org.uk/guidance/qs115) and Public Health information on Maternal Mental Health (www.bit.ly/2Noa0Qw).

D. Discharge and aftercare continued

Review

- Inform parents about the process of perinatal review and invite them to become involved in the review process.
- Ask parents if they want to be informed of the outcomes of the review of their baby's death, and if they have any questions for the review to address.
- Offer parents flexibility on the timing of when and how they contribute to the review process.
- Ensure the review looks at parents' clinical and emotional care, and covers the whole pathway of care, both antenatal and postnatal, with input from community healthcare professionals.

Feedback

- Discuss with parents the opportunity to give feedback about the bereavement care they receive.
- If they give consent to be contacted for feedback, let them know how and when they will be contacted.
- Document consent to participate in giving feedback.
- Use the Maternity Bereavement Experience Measure (MBEM) to capture parent feedback (www.bit.ly/2DQ3MJz).
- Be clear with parents that this feedback mechanism is not a review of the baby's death nor a complaints process.
- Be clear with parents about whether they will receive any follow-up contact about this after submitting their feedback.

E. Subsequent pregnancy

Preconception

- Familiarise yourself with the parent's notes.
- With consent, ensure the mother's notes are marked with a baby loss form (a template form for the notes is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk).
- Support parents to make informed choices around if/when to try for another baby.
- Discuss what, if anything, parents can do to reduce the risk of another death.
- Listen to and acknowledge parents' fears and concerns.
- Do not offer false reassurance and be aware that statistical probabilities may not be comforting.
- Be clear about the available support from staff and other organisations.
- Ensure that fathers and partners are offered support.

Antenatal care

- Offer regular contact with staff and emotional support and screening for mental health difficulties.
- Refer parents to another unit or another consultant if requested.
- Outline any additional antenatal support offered. Allocate extra time for these appointments.
- Remind parents they can bring a support person to attend these appointments.
- Discuss and acknowledge with parents (where appropriate) certain stages, events or dates during the pregnancy that may be particularly difficult for them (for example, discuss the birth plan and offer ward tour); consider a clinical alert to inform staff of the woman's previous history before admission.

E. Subsequent pregnancy

Labour and birth

- Be prepared for parents' emotional reactions during labour and at the birth.
- Be available to offer support if needed.
- Offer support to any partners or birth supporters who are with the woman.
- Offer sensitive support to parents after their baby is born.
- Let parents know mixed feelings are normal and be ready to talk about the baby who died.

Care in the community

- Offer parents a telephone call and/or house visit when they are back in the community.
- Allow enough time to offer emotional support as well as to check the mother's physical health.
- Discuss with parents how to talk about the baby who died with existing and subsequent siblings.
- Ensure ongoing care is available if needed. Offer referrals when necessary.
- Give parents the contact details of a healthcare professional they can contact for information and support (a template contact card is available from www.nbcpathway.org.uk).
- Offer parents contact with the chaplaincy team.
- Give parents the contact details of local and national support organisations (see Useful contacts).

F. Staff care

Staff care

- Recognise your own support needs.
 - Identify your own training needs or seek advice from colleagues or peers.
 - Communicate these needs with management and colleagues; other staff may have similar needs.
 - Ensure you are aware of the support structures and systems in place within your Trust.
 - Be aware of the stresses and challenges faced by your colleagues. Where appropriate flag support systems with them.
- Look after yourself by:
 - Getting enough sleep
 - Eating healthily
 - Exercising
 - Employing relaxation techniques
 - Booking annual leave
 - Watching your favourite film or television programme
 - Spending time in green space/outdoors
 - Spending time with a friend or on a hobby
